

---

Education is our investment in the future.

September 15, 2004

Dear Ms. Williams,

Thank you for being a part of our annual Back-To-School Night. As professional educators, we know the importance of first impressions. The beginning of a strong relationship with our families means having a positive first contact with them. Your involvement last night shows our community the emphasis you place on encouraging a meaningful partnership with our families.

Evenings such as the one you assisted in hosting last night go a long way in showcasing the many outstanding accomplishments of our students and staff. All throughout the building examples of your effort and students' learning are on full display for our visitors.

Again, thank you for being a part of this special evening. It is through your dedication that our school has set a positive tone, outlined our expectations, and encouraged our students' parents to be active partners in educating their children.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Steve Salerno".

Steve Salerno

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Jay Pica".

Jay Pica

